

SIEMENS

Attitudes to health, hospitals and medical appointments

42% of people surveyed confessed to being afraid of an MRI scan

1 in 7 people have cancelled hospital appointments because they were scared to go

Nearly half of patients are confused by what certain medical procedures involve

A third of parents find it difficult to explain to children about certain medical procedures

2 in every 3 patients have found themselves fearful of receiving a diagnosis

Discover the MRI Scan app to help reduce fears and confusion around the MRI process

Statistics calculated from a survey commissioned by Siemens in May '15 which asked 2,000 UK adults about their attitudes to their health, hospitals and medical appointments.