

Agreement for Trial-Use Software

The end user (Licensee) desires to have a trial use of the software (the Trial Software) on the Designated Unit as specified in the online form. In that regard, Licensee agrees with the terms and conditions of the local Siemens organization that this trial use will be governed by the software license terms that already apply for Licensor's Applications Software on that Designated Unit as described in the quote of the Designated Unit, which terms are incorporated herein by reference in full, except

- use of the Trial Software will be limited to a period of ninety (90) days, after which the Trial Software will automatically cease to function unless Licensee purchases a license to the Trial Software. The ninety (90) day trial period will begin on the earlier of the Requested Start date or the Actual Start Date. Licensee will be notified by email of the Actual Start Date.
- the Trial Software is made available as-is, without any warranties or support from Licensor. Siemens will not provide onsite training for the Software. Instead you may utilize the Documentation provided via the Software's Online Help function and other Documentation which may be provided along with the Software.

If you agree to these terms, you also represent that you are fully authorized by the owner of the Designated Unit to commit the owner to these license terms.

End users from Germany agree to the German license agreement \(Lizenzbedingungen\) - please use the German website Optionen & Upgrades for future requests.
